The Nation

Major General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., Progressive Conservative MP for Nanaimo, said compulsory military training in Canada would be fruitless because training facilities are "archaic" for a 20th century war.

Elaine Bask, 20-year-old Calgary taxi-driver, is determined to make a free parachute jump for the Calgary Air Show in September. She had her first jump yesterday under arrangements with ex-paratrooper "Smiley" Gray, who has been hired by show officials to perform the feat.

Trade & Industry

Sir Patrick Ashley Cooper, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, said the continuation of Canada's policy of selling to Europe and buying from the U.S. aggravated by the suspension of sterling convertibility, is imposing a "severe drain" on the Hudson's reserves of gold and U.S. dollars.

The first strike in the British newspaper industry since the general strike of 1926 was declared in Manchester over a dispute between the Typographical Association and the management, involving eight London newspapers with Manchester editions. About 300 men will be affected.

Representatives of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the American Federation of Labor said that unions in Quebec are preparing a campaign against known Communists and the management-dominated locals of their organizations.

World

Muslin-licensed British newspapers today carried pictures of the Wednesday Ludoglavshaven explosion in the "Y" district and insisted the explosion was evidence of "war preparations" of Western governments.

Maurice S. Eccles, director of the Federal Reserve Board, said that the Canadian government's proposal for a monetary union is not a sound economic sense. The president said it is "trying to put Humpty Dumpty together again."

People

Thomas Charles Hall, 66-year-old teamster & broker, whose mummified body was found July 10 under the floor of a Calgary house, died in 1920 from "blows on the left side of the skull by some person or persons unknown," a coroner's jury decided.

Dr. R. G. Ferguson resigned as medical director and superintendent of the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League to succeed to the position of Canadian representative on the World Health Organization's sub-committee on Ty. He had Saskatchewan's fight, recognized as one of the most valiant in the world against the disease.

40 YEARS OF "KNOW HOW!"

Winston Churchill, in a heated debate in the British House, demanded that a hearing of Hyderabad's complaint against India be made in the U.N. Said Attlee: "Mr. Churchill always takes like he calls his 'facts' from one side."

William W. Remington, U.S. commerce department official accused of giving information to a Russian spy, Elizabeth Bentley, said "I am not and never have been a member of the Communist party." He pointed out that he was then 21 years old and is now over 30. "I did think I would not do now," said he.

The mightiest review of peace-time air strength ever staged in the U.S. saw more than 1,000 planes exhibited in the air over dedication ceremonies of the $200,000,000 New York International airport. British jet fighters also took part.

Arson Charged In $50,000 Fire

was on fire. We went out and saw flames coming out of the east side of Pederick's store. I ran upstairs and shouted "Fire!"

Mrs. M. Thatcher, an elderly woman living alone on the first floor, was trapped down the stairs by police. Her husband is in hospital.

"I was nearly overcome by the smoke but I think I will be all right," said Thatcher. The fire chief said most of the damage was caused by smoke through the ceiling and east wall were charred by the flames. The store was full of furniture in the fire was smothered. The chief said it has not been determined what ignited the explosion.

"It could have been a cigarette," he said. Firefighters concentrated their attention on confining the fire to the rear portion of the main floor and were successful in gaining control in about one hour.

Mounting hose lines on a ladder against the east wall, firemen played streams of water through the second floor window and saved the front part of the store.

The fire chief said it was "lucky" the fire started early in the evening. Had it broken out through the night with tenants asleep "it would have been a mass."

RENTS RETURN
Most tenants who had carried personal belongings from their apartments to the store returned after assurance from firemen that danger was over.

Mr. Pederick was playing in the Highlands Club in a match golf tournament at the time of the fire. He was returning to his home at the time of the fire and was not in the store when it started.

The Pederick store was opened in the Richards building last September. It was owned by F. E. Algar and landlady and partner, Mrs. M. Thatcher.

As far as could be ascertained no one was in the store premises at the time of the fire. Investigation into the fire began today under the direction of Fire Marshal J. Booth. Fire Chief James Macgregor announced this morning.

Americans Take 4 Olympic Finals

Coveted 100-Metre Dash Won By Harrison Dillard of U.S.

By Jack Sullivan
OLYMPIC STADIUM, WEMBLEY, July 31.—(CP)—This was "United States Day" at the 14th Olympic Games. American track men and swimmers scored four final victories, including the 100-metre dash, most spectacular event of the games.

Canada's best effort of the day was the heat-winning performance of Pat Jones, New Westminster, B.C., sprinter, in the 100-metre women's dash. And Canada's basketball team scored its second consecutive win, downing Britain 44-24.

Harrison Dillard, great negro hurdler who could make the American team in his specialty, raced over the 100-metre distance in Olympic-record-equaling time of 10.3 seconds.

Roy Cochran of Los Angeles drew noisy acclaim from the capacity 84,000 crowd in Olympic stadium when he smashed the existing record in the 400-metre hurdles. His time was 51.1 seconds, and he finished six yards in front of Cochran's surprise, Duane White, a virtual unknown.

MORE NEW RECORDS
Bruce Harlan of State University won an easy victory in the springboard diving competition in London. His time was 1.14 seconds, a new American record.

Wally Ritz, foot-styler artist from University of Iowa, splashed through the 100-metre swimming sprint final in Olympic record time of 27.3 seconds.

Dr. George Athans of Vancouver, old records in the diving with 114.1 points.

Sharing honors with the Americans was the Netherlands' spectacular breast stroke star, Nel Van Vliet. For the second time in as many days she broke the 200-metre breast stroke record. Her time was 2:40.4.

Only Austria broke the American hold on the final-event of the women's javelin throw with M. Gaudemini of France and coach John Turtur of Vancouver entered protest against the decision. A ruling was expected tonight.

Morgan Plumb of Toronto, winner yesterday, lost the unanimous decision today to B. Baumann of Hungary but remained in the competition.

Canadian Girls Lose At Poles
WEMBLEY, England, July 31.—(CP)—Both Canadian girls competitors in the individual foil competition were eliminated today in their first appearance in the Olympic Games.

Betty Hamilton of Montreal was eliminated when she failed to win a match, although she almost defeated K. Mahaut of Denmark.

Earlier Rhonda Martin of Vancouver was successful against Argentine opponent but lost to women fencers from Belgium, the United Kingdom, the United States and Brazil.

Swimming Pools Control

The Edmonton Recreation Commission has done such a splendid job of operating the 15 supervised playgrounds that the three public swimming pools should also be put under its control.

These playgrounds, which have already served the needs of more than 10,000 children this summer, have been made bright, attractive and useful. New grounds are being opened up and old ones improved.

In short, the Commission has succeeded in operating these playgrounds at maximum efficiency because it is primarily interested in recreation and thus becomes the focal point for all recreational interest in Edmonton.

It would be impossible to say that the pools are operated inefficiently under the parks department. On the contrary, they are operated exceedingly well. But the Recreation Commission could operate them better because where the first interest of the parks department is the administration of property, the first interest of the Commission is the welfare of people.

One does not expect the parks department to promote water safety and other enterprises connected with the pools because these things are not the business of the parks department.

But one would expect the Commission to promote such enterprises because those are the very purposes it was created to serve.

The full utilization of the pools and the building of more pools will be forwarded by handing over their administration to the Recreation Commission.

Strengthening Child Welfare

The appointment of Ted Brown as a member of the Alberta Child Welfare Commission will strengthen the administration of that department of government.

Mr. Brown is a man of wide sympathies and equally wide experience. His work before, during and after the war was and has been of a nature to build up public confidence in his judgment and good-will.

He is a man who has won and who deserves the trust of the majority of Alberta people.

It is a good appointment and should have good results.

The Christ of Dynamic Action

The side of Christ's character that is most frequently overlooked in these days is the side shown in the 19th chapter of St. Luke's Gospel which tells of Jesus approaching Jerusalem after the violent action of His violence in the temple.

Our Lord approaches the walls and towers of the historic city and as He catches His first glimpse of it at the turn in the road He bursts into tears. His sorrow over what He knows to be the future of Jerusalem is symbolic of His sorrow over the fate of the unrepentant human soul. He weeps, not only for Jerusalem, but for the sins of the world.

But in the next breath of this amazing narrative, His tears have been translated into fury and the reader sees Him attacking the money-changers in the temple and hurling their equipment violently down the steps.

The latter is the part of Christ's nature that is forgotten. There is a tendency to see the tender Christ, but to be blind to the Christ of dynamic action.

And yet the tender Christ is incomplete without the dynamic Christ. The tears shed over Jerusalem would have been valueless without the subsequent forceful purging of the temple. The two must go together and cannot be separated.

Christ's pity is meaningless without the violent action. His violence in the temple is mere temper without the preceding evidence of His love for Jerusalem.

The temptation to picture Jesus of Nazareth as a mild and ineffective milk-and-water Jesus is certainly the one of the ancient and medieval Christians had no such delusions.

To them the Faith was a vigorous and fighting faith. The pictures and figures of action, and as Chesterfield says, even of the gargoyles on the cathedrals were shouting gargoyles.

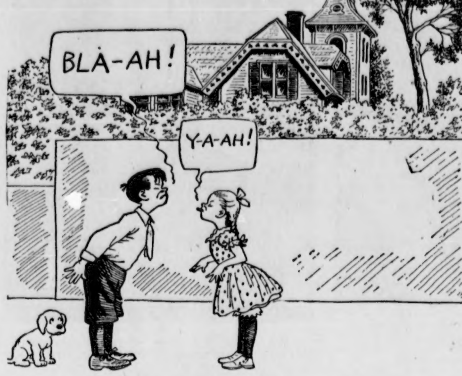

Similarly, the Christian life is a life of placid contentment. It is a life of struggle and inward fury and action.

The most typical thing about the conversion of St. Paul, for instance, was the light that struck him blind.

Christianity moves, not imperceptibly, but in a high and shrieking wind.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Alberta Timber

Editor, Bulletin.—The above timber resources are one of the most important in the province, but it is a question which has not received the consideration it deserves, and in my opinion early steps should be taken in co-operation with practical business men to provide for a long plan.

With the liquidation of our more accessible timber stands in the province, competition for crown timber lands has definitely increased since the war ended. The public have noted with very grave concern the exorbitant stumpage rates arising out of these conditions which in some cases are between two and three times the rate now in force and above that prevailing during the war.

From a long range point of view these unreasonable rates are regrettable and there should be no satisfaction arising out of the monetary profit in revenue accruing to the province.

It is too much to expect that a definite declaration of policy will be publicly announced in the near future.

Hutterite Invasion

Editor, Bulletin.—A letter appears in your paper of recent date entitled "Hutterite Viewpoint." This letter appears to be an attempt to mislead the public by teaching the older Canadian stock a lesson in Christianity.

For his information it would be well to inform him that during the last year the Hutterites have been experienced in Canada. These colonies have been established in various parts of the province, many of which were in a very primitive state of civilization.

We welcomed them with fine land, work at living wages, and the Hutterites have responded with a very high standard of living. They have been successful in their business and have been able to produce a surplus of goods.

Many of these colonies have been established in the prairie provinces, and they have been successful in their business and have been able to produce a surplus of goods. They have been successful in their business and have been able to produce a surplus of goods.

"Poor And Foolish Tools"

Editor, Bulletin.—"Such Poor and Foolish Tools" was the title of one of the editorials in which Henry Wallace was intimated with what the title implied. I would ask many of the editors of our leading newspapers to ask themselves if that did not apply to them as well.

Apparently the editor does not seem to realize the ever-changing conditions all over the world. When U.S.A. broke away so heroically from the mother country for the sole reason that she, the thirteen colonies, might benefit in the same way as Britain was benefiting, men like William Pitt and others foresaw that they had to change their policies towards other colonies.

Naturally, Canada, down to present day, and India were formed into self-governing countries. I am sure the editor will readily understand the reasons for this. It is too soon to be over-optimistic that the Hutterites will not be able to produce a surplus of goods.

But a "New Canadian" who has never been beyond his mother's care is assuming quite a responsibility when he undertakes to inform the Canadian people of the conditions in the country.

It is too soon to be over-optimistic that the Hutterites will not be able to produce a surplus of goods. They have been successful in their business and have been able to produce a surplus of goods.

Racial Problems Need Tolerance

The great campaigns against social discrimination in the U.S. against the tendency of minority racial groups to identify the national interest with their own, are not mitigating but exposing the racial hatreds, tensions, and the Klan is rising again in years.

There is more anti-Negro feeling in the north and more anti-Jew feeling in the south. The Klan is rising again in years.

For where racial or religious sympathies or antipathies are concerned, the forces engaged are emotional and irrational, with no twisted logic, no uncomprehending mind and capable, therefore, of producing the most explosive reactions.

Discrimination is a phase of human nature, not confined to any group. If Gentiles discriminate against Jews, so do Jews against Gentiles, and so do Negroes against whites. In the reconstruction era, against whites. Jewish Zionists, against Jews, and anti-Semitism flourishes among

The racial problems of such a heterogeneous nation as ours cannot be "solved" except by gradually expanding tolerance over great periods of time. We have to live with them, as we have to live with all our real problems, each of us, of whatever race, bearing his share of the burden, and instead of brotherly love, you will promote hate; instead of social peace, persecution, and instead of justice, revenge.

Woman Stumps Atom Experts on Life, Soul

WASHINGTON, July 31.—A grandmother stumped the atomic scientists today with her questions on the mystery of life and the fleeting soul at death. They said, at a news conference of the Atomic Energy Commission, that they were coming closer to the solution of how life begins.

In fact, with their radioactive isotopes they have finally disclosed the last vestige of the mechanistic theory of the human body. But the soul? They have not gone around to investigating it scientifically.

Miss Elsie May Craig, correspondent for several New England papers, put some members of the commission and its scientists on the spot.

"You think you are getting at the secret of where life begins?" asked Mrs. Craig, who also asked them to throw elemental questions at President Truman.

"The officials all looked at Dr. James A. Jensen, director of its Biological Division."

"I think the answer would be yes," Dr. Jensen began bravely, for the reason that he was responsible to push back the barriers of knowledge and to answer questions about understanding more about life.

Much later in the conference Mrs. Craig asked:

"If we listened to Henry Wallace who has high standards of living and his articles like 'Such Poor and Foolish Tools' would not appear."

A Disease They Missed

Editor, Bulletin.—Since the atomic war, scientists have realized that physical, it seems to me, that that wonderful organization, Alcoholism Anonymous, has been more effective than any hospital could be in helping these needy people.

In modern medical parlance alcoholic is a disease. It is an age of preventive, even more than curative medicine. Scientists have learned the mid-night oil in developing serum to combat the disease, even more than curative medicine. Scientists have learned the mid-night oil in developing serum to combat the disease, even more than curative medicine.

Overcome but not this disease of alcoholism. We have the curious paradox of men legalizing, condoning, the inebriated beverage which makes men ill. This liquor traffic which medicine science has created our third greatest public health problem.

AS I SEE IT

Indicting of Commies Justified by Law

I do not see how any true believer in the principle of democracy can object to the indictment of several leaders of the U.S. Communist party.

This procedure is clearly within the letter and spirit of the law of the land. Honest democrats have rightly objected to the disgraceful Red-baiting and hysterical anti-Communist witch hunt because it tends to shroud the basic constitutional principle of the United States.

PHILPOTT

Indicting far more deadly than anything which the subjects might have committed.

Under the laws all nations consider a crime. No country permits individuals or groups to organize to overthrow the established order by violence. Every country, in every stage of civilization, has laws on the statute books which prohibit the implementation or other punishment of those guilty of such serious criminal activity.

Those laws are not a protection for the nation, but in a democracy they are also the basis of the principle of democracy can object to the indictment of several leaders of the U.S. Communist party.

Halifax Gets Taverns, Beer, Wine in Hotels

HALIFAX, July 31.—(CP)—Thirty Halifaxians will soon be able to quaff their favorite draughts of beer in the confines of their choosing.

Following the July 19th plebiscite when citizens of this old port voted in favor of beer and wine sales by the glass, the Nova Scotia cabinet yesterday announced regulations governing the operation of taverns. So far 31 applications had been received for tavern licenses. The taverns will be restricted to beer sales while hotels will be allowed to serve beer and wine with meals. Women will be banned from taverns while only men 21 years old or more will be allowed to enter the pubs. Hours are set from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily except Sunday, election days, Christmas and Good Friday.

The recently-formed tavern committee has not announced a price list for wine and beer, but it is expected that an eight-ounce glass of beer will sell for 10 cents. Barmen, juke boxes, bars and slot machines will be banned from taverns while all waiters will have to be licensed.

DISTRICT NEWS IN BRIEF

Small Schools May Be Closed

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, July 31.—A. F. Devorell, Superintendent of the Rocky Mountain School Division, has just returned from Edmonton, where he went with the express purpose of hiring teachers for the coming term, but he found the situation in regard to teacher supply worse than last year.

After days of effort, he succeeded in hiring one teacher for a rural school, and at present there are seventeen rural schools in this division needing teachers and other superintendents throughout the province report the same difficulty. Education officials fear that if the hiring of teachers is not completed by the end of the month, the definite refusal of teachers to open the schools will force a long term plan of eliminating small rural schools, thus reducing the number of teachers required.

Teachers will accept town schools but will not even discuss going to the country, so it may be necessary to bring the children into town for their education, or have the teachers live in the town and take them out each day to the rural schools.

Ukrainian Church Opens At St. Paul

ST. PAUL, July 31.—Over 300 people from all parts of north-eastern Alberta, were present at the formal opening ceremony and "Blessing of the Cross" at the new Ukrainian Catholic church here on Sunday, July 25.

Father Kurlyo, pastor of two institutes in Edmonton, officiated at the service assisted by Father Horvath of Glendon.

Following the ceremony dinner to the estimated 300 guest present was served at the Parish Hall. After-dinner speeches were made by Father Kurlyo, Horvath and Leduc, and Mr. Yakim, president and chairman of the organization.

This edifice, which is a tribute to the hard work and unrelenting effort of the sparse number of Ukrainians here, cost in the neighborhood of $15,000. Services will be held in the new church every second Sunday with a priest from Glendon officiating.

BIG BERRY CROP IN ROCKY AREA

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, July 31.—At the Saskatoon crop did on the vine in the very dry weather in June, but the wild strawberry berry crop has been the best in years, very large berries. One woman east of town has canned fifty-seven quarts of wild strawberries and ten quarts of jam.

Bitterberries are ripening with the promise of a heavy crop, and while it is too soon to tell about the cranberries the Indians say they will be a heavy crop, too.

Born in Clinton County, Ontario, Mr. Churchill went to Neche, N.D. as a young man, later moving to Morris, Man., where he resided until 1911 when he came to Hanna. After farming at Hanna until 1923 he moved to Daysland and has remained here ever since.

He married at thirty and had six children, all of whom are deceased.

Sculptor Ready to Carve Newfoundland Into Canada

OTTAWA, July 31.—(CP)—The man who stepped the government by 11 years is all set to carve Newfoundland into Canada.

Cleo Soucy, a sculptor, a stone-carver and a singer and clarinet player to boot, says he figured in 1937 that something like a 1000 provinces was liable to happen to Canada. So, in the midst of the work he has been doing for the government for 20 years, he carved 10 instead of nine shields around the great gothic arch at the entrance to the centre block of parliament.

Nine of them have long been filled with the coats of arms of the provinces. The 10th stayed blank. Now if Newfoundland comes in—Mr. Soucy admits he wasn't sure whether it would be Newfoundland, Yukon or the Northwest Territories—he will make it one of his first jobs to complete the picture.

He says there is enough work around the corridors, lobbies and rooms of parliament to keep a stonecarver busy "for generations." He needs at least four stonecarvers to get the work into high gear. And there are none in Ottawa.

He again will be considered. The committee is composed of City Engineer A. T. Leger, H. O. Day, normally assisted by a city manager, public superintendent, James J. Heil, and a city manager, engineer, and a proposal to appoint a city manager.

DRAMATIC EVENTS IN THE HISTORY OF ALBERTA

FORT CALGARY

In 1875 a small band of Mounted Police under the command of Inspector E. A. Brisebois established Fort Calgary at the junction of the Bow and Elbow Rivers.

During the early '70s the valleys of the Bow and Elbow Rivers were the favorite hunting grounds of the Blackfoot, Sarcee and Stoney Indians. The notorious whiskey traders frequented this locality because they could slip in from across the line, dispose of their whiskey, and escape before the police could be sent up from Fort Macleod. It was to meet this situation that Colonel Macleod sent a troop of men to erect a police post on the Bow River.

The narrow neck of land at the confluence of the Bow and Elbow Rivers was selected as a suitable site mainly because of the protection afforded on both sides by the rivers from attacks by hostile Indians.

The fort was first named "Fort Brisebois" by its first commander without consulting his superior officers. In 1876 it was officially given the name "Fort Calgary" by Colonel Macleod, which was the name of an estate belonging to the Macleod family on the Isle of Mull, and meaning in Gaelic: "Clear, running water."

With the arrival of the steel of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1883, came the rush of population. Thus in 1884 Fort Calgary was incorporated as the first "town" on the great plains of Alberta.

Today the beautiful foothills city of Calgary, once the camping grounds of the noble red man, flourishes as the consummation of the dream of a few far-sighted pioneers who laid the foundation in 1875.

This advertisement is published to encourage interest in historic events in the early days of Alberta.

Size of House Can Be Determined By Compromise

By Bert Nightingale

Shall our new home be one or two stories? A man's wife may well consider two stories a nuisance—(think of having to run up and downstairs all day!) while on the other hand, the husband who pays the shot in building a home, might consider upstairs bedrooms essential.

The answer is by no means a lifeless feud, with one or other partners suffering for the sake of size or her better half's wants. Instead, you can work a neat compromise into the modern scheme of housing by adapting the storey-and-a-half measure.

There is a general impression, that one often hears expressed in Edmonton nowadays, that an equal amount of room can be built into a two-storey house at less cost than a one-storey plan.

Here's the answer: the cost of construction and wasted floor area, caused by stairways, and the extra cost of materials and labor in building the second floor, is quite often great enough to make the one-storey house cheaper.

As a matter of fact, and as figures, the one-storey house, over all, costs slightly more than one-and-a-half or a two-storey house of the same ground plan size.

But on the other side of the ledger, a one-storey house is usually better-looking, because of its spaciousness and its open plan. It saves the labor and effort of going up and down stairs. Also, with no stairways cutting up the inside spaces, the interior of a one-storey house can be better planned and given a more spacious appearance.

BOOK-LIKE
Two-storey houses on a small scale often have a book-like look that makes exterior beauty difficult to achieve. In some measure this can be done away with by putting the house very low to the ground and using airways to provide basement lighting.

An excellent idea nowadays is the one and one-half storey compromise. Usually, in this plan, up stairs rooms are directly under the roof, getting their light from dormer windows. This type of house is particularly good for younger people.

above ground and is carefully planned as a part of the house, you will have saved yourself the labor of running up and down stairs. Then too, the basement-level house must cover more area and therefore looks more imposing, a definite advantage when it comes to resale.

PLANNING
Careful planning is required in laying out the basement into which extra rooms will be cut. Beams, supports of any kind, pipes from various utility fixtures, should all be arranged so as to leave a good size portion of basement walls and ceiling free. In addition, a well-constructed basement is necessary—free from dampness and impervious to such hosts of nature as spring floods and sudden thaws.

A survey of such basement rooms, increasingly popular in Edmonton, reveals that lower-level bedrooms or studios or playrooms can be extremely attractive. But the most attractive are those which have been painstakingly planned in every detail beforehand.

Inside Hollywood

By Patricia Clary

United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD. — (UP) — Lipstick, claims Olivia de Havilland, is a woman's armor against a stern world.

"A woman without lipstick is in her mental underwear," the star said. "She looks like a scared little girl instead of a mature person, and her naked face seems to reveal all her inner thoughts."

That's the way Miss de Havilland is supposed to look in her latest role in Paramount's "The Heiress." Difficult as it is, the part requires the pretty Olivia to look plain.

Miss de Havilland and her director, William Wyler, picture the heiress as a healthy girl with a well-scrubbed look, not unattractive, but not alluring.

So Miss de Havilland let her eyebrows grow bushy. She turned down false eyelashes. She did her hair in a severe, straight old-fashioned style, copied from a portrait of her great-grandmother.

Instead of powdering her, makeup men dabbed her face so it would shine. She used a very pale lipstick, just enough to make a mouth photograph, and she rubbed it on with her fingers.

"It's the part that matters to me," she commented, "not the way I look. If it's an interesting role I'm satisfied."

"I really think acting is more effective if you don't have to use the conventional make-up. It's easier to show emotions, to protect a characterization."

But in every day life, Miss de Havilland is a firm champion of beauty aids, in moderation.

"I always wear lipstick and powder, but I don't believe in taping them on with a trowel," she said. "I don't use a base, and rarely use mascara."

Paint of some kind is necessary, she insists, for women who com

"We need it to mask our inner thoughts," she said, "and I think most women—perhaps unconsciously—use it for that purpose. A quick flip of a compact, a little painting restores any woman's confidence."

Canadian Atom Expert Grows Minerals in Lab

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 31—(BUP) — Minerals have been "grown" in a laboratory as part of an atomic study, a Canadian scientist reported Friday.

Speaking before the international congress of Crystallography, L. G. Berry of Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., said he had "grown" the minerals—actually synthesizing them by using a water solution at high temperature and under pressure.

Among the minerals produced, he said, were compounds of lead-

they gradually reformed into the crystals of the compound."

With these synthetic minerals, Berry said, he was able to study the systematic variation of the properties of the minerals as their chemical composition varied.

Stage Is Set For Big City Concert

Chorus Filling Out After Dismal Start

By Dick Sherbanuk

Rehearsals are progressing favorably for Edmonton's ten air concert which will be held Sunday, August 8, at 8:45 p.m. in Clarke Stadium.

The civic effort is being held by the City Recreation Commission, in co-operation with the local music community.

The chorus is being filled out by the local musicians' union.

The music is being arranged by the local musicians' union.

FOUR SOLISTS

Solists will be Ruth Gillis, Betty Shaw, Leslie W. Moak and Jack Denison.

Miss Shaw will sing a gavotte from Massenet's Manon, and the British folk song Cherry Ripe.

Miss Shaw will render comic selections, and Mr. Denison several songs with orchestra and own piano accompaniment.

Mr. Moak, bass baritone, who is assisting Les Hepler with chorus rehearsals, will sing Bloss Time.

45-PIECE ORCHESTRA

The 45-member orchestra, which will accompany the choral singing, will play selections from the 45th anniversary of the W. W. Emporium.

Polka from Weinberger's Schwanda, the Bagpipe Fiddle.

It is all it should be a very enjoyable 90-minute program, the better in cool evening weather.

Hope the weathermen like music, and doesn't dampen the air of music-lovers.

RECORD CONCERT

And speaking of the Great Odeon, the Edmonton City Board has decided to record the first in a series of 90-minute record concerts on August 3.

A public address system will be set up on McDougall Hill, and light will be thrown on the hill.

The record concert will be the midday break for those who eat their lunch at the hill.

Hope the weathermen like music, and doesn't dampen the air of music-lovers.

Hot Dixieland Music Still Reigns Supreme

By Dick Sherbanuk

There's been quite a change in jazz during the past half a century.

Early stuff, Dixieland style, has remained popular through the years and is still heard a lot.

But the music that was played in jazz's adolescent years, the First World War, has been almost lost in its gradual development.

Today's style is a new style.

RECORDS

Recently came across an old record album released under the name of "Hot Jazz."

It was a sample of some of the lyrics from Hot Jazz and was called Hot Jazz with a George Formby-style.

ENTERTAINMENT

Entitled simply "McKinnley Cotton Pickers," the album is corny but it's fun. On Victor, some of the jazz men who play this music are Don Redman, Fats Coleman and Duke Ellington.

It's a sample of some of the lyrics from Hot Jazz and was called Hot Jazz with a George Formby-style.

Naked City

Tops Movies This Week

By HARLOW JONES

Every once in a while a movie achieves a certain greatness by telling a story in a straight-forward, down-to-earth way. Such a one is the late Mark Hellinger's production of the "Naked City" now playing at the Rialto.

It is a novel picture in many ways.

The movie-maker doesn't have to sit through a long list of credits, directors, film producers, etc., etc., etc.

Instead, it begins in a sort of travesty of newsworld-style with a commentary which grips your interest from the very first moment.

The story is played straight. Mark Hellinger's voice supplies commentary from time to time in a very early fashion which is not inordinately hardy notice.

You just suddenly realize you've been taken a little farther along than you think.

Barry Fitzgerald is excellent. The supporting cast does a good job. The story carries itself.

For once, the audience is given a pretty authentic look at the inner workings of a large police force. The plan is stripped away. One gets a view of a police station, work which a dozen or more men put into tracking down a criminal.

And the real McCoy turns out to be far more dramatic than the ordinary movie version could possibly be.

It is a picture with a large interest appeal for anyone who is interested in law to earth people and who is interested in a story which has a criminal background. I still think it is a good picture. I saw it. I really enjoyed it.

Up I saw it. At the Capitol, the mood is 100 percent different. To night, it is a picture of a police station, work which a dozen or more men put into tracking down a criminal.

And the real McCoy turns out to be far more dramatic than the ordinary movie version could possibly be.

It is a picture with a large interest appeal for anyone who is interested in law to earth people and who is interested in a story which has a criminal background. I still think it is a good picture. I saw it. I really enjoyed it.

Up I saw it. At the Capitol, the mood is 100 percent different. To night, it is a picture of a police station, work which a dozen or more men put into tracking down a criminal.

And the real McCoy turns out to be far more dramatic than the ordinary movie version could possibly be.

Christian Joy

Joy is an essential part of the Christian spirit. "Rejoice and be glad," the Saviour said. When he spoke thus He had in mind not only the anticipated joys of Heaven, but those experienced on earth.

The Apostle Thomas defined pleasure as the possession of good. A true Christian appreciates the joy of having been made in the image and likeness of God; of having been redeemed by the sacrifice of His Son; of possessing natural and supernatural faculties whose exercise is satisfying and rewarding. He rejoices over good gifts and blessings as to a happy home, health, good education, work, and the opportunities of recreation.

Nor does the intelligent Christian cease to rejoice over his material blessings even in days of sorrow and tribulation. He is patient and untroubled in the midst of adversity, not because he welcomes pain or disappointment, but because he knows that whatever befalls him is part of God's providence; because in every seeming misfortune there is always the certainty of God's limitations love.

The greatest foundation of man's joy is the knowledge that he is created for eternal happiness. Every earthly pleasure is enhanced by the joy of anticipating what God has prepared for those who love Him. With such firmness of faith, no Christian need ever be gloomy or depressed; rather he feels doubly obliged to remember Christ's injunction to rejoice.

It must always be remembered that man's joy, to be true and lasting, must have a supernatural basis. It is significant that joy in worldly possessions decreases if we regard these gifts as an end in themselves instead of looking upon them as an incentive to keep aspiring after a higher and immeasurably greater happiness. The whole spirit of rejoicing is merely a reflection of man's realization that God's will is supreme, knowing that if he served God faithfully he will one day possess a joy that no human mind can conceive.

COME TO CHURCH THIS SUNDAY

British Hospitals To Have Chaplains

LONDON.—Every hospital and government contract and ownership by the new Health Act will have a full- or part-time chaplain. The Ministry of Health has announced this.

The proposal to appoint chaplains to state-controlled hospitals was made by Anglican Bishop H. G. Wynn of Ely in a series of meetings with the Home Secretary.

REV. GERALD ROGERS will be in charge of religious services at the Metropolitan Hospital, which is located at 1000 Avenue of the Americas in New York City. He will preach on the topic "Now or Never" and "What Is Your Life?"

Lay Pastors Being Abolished

BRISTOL, England.—No additional lay pastors are to be employed by the Methodist Church of Great Britain. It was decided at the denomination's annual conference.

The conference agreed to the eventual abolition of the lay pastor and appointed a committee to work out details.

Christian Science

"Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men." (Psalms 103:1.) "Thine love always has met with ways to meet every human need." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 494.) These are typical of the passages which the Lesson-Sermons of the "Lives in Christian Science" courses on Sunday.

Dismal Picture Seen By Adventist Speaker

Men have discovered how to blow the world to pieces when they most need to learn how to blow it together. A third world war is a certainty.

This was the grim picture painted by C. B. Haynes of Washington, D.C., at a Seventh Day Adventist camp meeting at Lacrosse recently.

More than 1,000 attended the gathering held on the campus of Canadian Union College.

Mr. Haynes is secretary of the church's war service, maintaining a liaison between the armed forces and the church.

He urged study of the world's need for peace, saying that the end of civilization is no longer an empty phrase. Mr. Haynes said the United Nations have had no more success than the old League of Nations.

The United Nations failed to measure up to the world's need for peace, he said.

There could be no doubt, said Mr. Haynes, that mankind is in the grip of the end and great day of trouble foretold in Holy Writ.

Jerry Seaman, who placed on the BULLETIN All-Stars which the players of the Big Four league selected recently. Nevertheless there are those who maintain that he is one, two, three, best highlander in the circuit.

For sure he looked the part at Renfrew last night when taming the Friday version of Letty Wilson's Calgary Purty 90 squad by a 5-1 score.

All season the Oilers have presented a sub-par lineup in the hit of their weekend series at Renfrew. Neither Ernie Beland, who topped the loss in hitting for several weeks earlier, nor Archie Wilder, also home run hitter, took their places in the Purty.

PURITY'S HOT TOUCH
In any event Seaman just joined with the Calgary team. He took to the field in a half game of play, presently held in somewhat of a fashion by their Friday version.

"I'll be out there in front by myself after Saturday's game," was the cry in the Esk camp before Seaman's late night effort.

If Seaman was the defensive star of last night, then the offensive was the work of the Eskimos. Seaman and Cliff Johnson were the grunts who sparked when it came to the line for the Eskimos.

Seaman was a strong and double in four trips and chased home four. Johnson propelled a trio of runners across the plate starting with a pair in the opening inning. With two away and Seaman in the lead, Johnson's double bled the outfielders.

As it turned out this pair of rallies was all Ekis required. Purity put to Seaman a 10-0 score in the fifth frame, Ken Stewart, Jim Lowe (a double) and 18-year-old Glen Gensbush making the difference.

TWO RUNS ENOUGH

ONE, TWO, THREE . . . EASY DOES IT . . .

FIGURE DIVINE is kept that way by long, lovely and tireless Zola Tauer, who exposes a happy length of limb while having a fling at a few calisthenics. You don't have to leap about flexing your muscles like Tarzan's mate to keep slender and sylphlike . . . but it is a good idea to run through faithful figure-controller exercises fairly often.

WELL . . . ICE CREAM ISN'T REALLY SO VERY FATTENING . . . IS IT?

WILL POWER WEAKENS once in awhile and Allison Steenes dabbles in a double-header of ice cream. Actually Allison has mastered the diet dilemma and follows a happy middle-way of moderate diet and lots of sparkle-adding exercise. As a matter of fact it isn't the ice cream that really does the harm. It's goodies like hot apple pie, banana cream pie, french-fried potatoes, rich gravies that really do the damage. Keep to the crisp, green salads and you'll keep that slim figure.

Pleasantly Plump? Not Happy About It? Try Eating Less

Faint praise is damning. And what could be more irksome than to be called "pleasantly plump?"

The average woman is on a kind of weight seesaw. She's up . . . she's down . . . she gains . . . she loses . . . and on, on, on.

There are definite reasons for this tendency to vary in poundage from time to time. Metabolism plays its part. Because of this some women are more subject to overweight than others.

But more often this tendency is due to habits in eating and physical activity.

The woman who is active physically, the one who indulges in sports regularly, is not so apt to become obese as her sedentary sister.

And when she does gain a few pounds, they are more attractively distributed.

If a woman's tastes in eating are cultivated to enjoy most the rich, calorie-packed foods, then of course she will be a victim of overweight in most cases.

Eating habits can be formed just as easily as the smoking habit. Food habits can be changed into a more healthful and beautifying pattern with the help of a bit of will power.

Before launching into any strenuous diets, one should interview a doctor.

But when mild dieting should suffice to keep the figure trim and attractive, there are a few rules to follow. When reducing, most women should cut their calorie-intake between 1,000 and 1,400 calories per day.

Essentials of a good reducing diet consist of lean meat, fish or fowl; an egg a day or at least five times a week; skimmed milk; fresh fruit; citrus fruit juice; green salad vegetables; a variety of green and yellow vegetables and a baked potato every other day.

Ignore cream sauces, fried foods and . . . desserts . . .

Avoid as you would the plague . . . rich gravies, oily mayonnaises, whipped cream, too much bread.

SOLVES BOTH TRANSPORTATION AND EXERCISE PROBLEMS

BICYCLE BUILT FOR ONE may not have the romantic connotations that the old-style tandem had, but it does an efficient job of keeping Pat Scott's trim, slender figure just that way. Circulation and respiration are whipped up without any dire results to lax muscles. Cycling is a healthful activity that should be pursued by people of all ages, and especially the middle-aged group for it is muscle-toning yet relaxing.

Fashionable Figures Kept Lithe, Limber By Constant Exercise

Fashion's current darling is a wasp-like waistline.

Nine chances out of ten you'll have to reshape your figure to suit new-style silhouettes. Exercise and dieting are musts to keep that "figure divine."

If you need to cinch in your waistline with exercise, here are three ballet-borrowed routines, which, if followed consistently, should minimize your middle.

All set? Take your stance for the first exercise in the middle of the room, with your weight on your left foot. Extend right foot forward and point toes, ballet-fashion.

Raise both arms above head, keeping elbows behind ears; and with your weight still on your left foot, bend left knee deeply and slide your right foot forward.

Next, bend from your waistline as far forward as you can and touch both hands to right ankle. Alternate sides and keep exercising.

For the second exercise, stand with your right heel touching your left instep. Raise both arms above your head, keeping elbows back of your ears, and bend at the waistline as far left as you can swing your body.

Return to the original position and repeat routine swinging to the right.

The third exercise is a tough one to do. Take this one easy, standing firm-footed on a floor which isn't slick and on which there is no scatter rug which might slip out from under you and cause a nasty fall.

This exercise, in imitation of the ballerina's bar work, needs working up to slowly.

So go easy. Take a stance like that described for the foregoing exercise and as a substitute for the ballerina's bar use a sturdy high-backed overstuffed chair on which to prop your foot as you alternately swing legs.

Before swinging, stand with arms in front of you in a curved position with fingers turned toward each other.

With weight on left foot, bend backward as far as you can stretch your torso and swing right leg to the chair top where you can prop your foot. Go back to position, and repeat exercise swinging the other leg to the chair.

The Macdonald hotel. But much as she likes the scenery she abhors the road.

Like other travellers she's convinced more Canadians would holiday in their own country if they could drive without having to contend with dust and dirt.

Warburg Garden Yields Wealth Of Strawberries

Warburg residents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Price are amazed at their bumper crop of large, sweet, ripe strawberries. In a 16-foot square plot berries have ripened to fill 100 pint baskets, headed.

On an acreage basis, this represents a crop of nearly 20,000 pint baskets per acre. Mrs. Price should have lots of good strawberry jam this winter.

Unwise Buying Causes Waste

He who buys what he doesn't need wastes his money. (Swedish proverb). The proverb above could easily fit any one of us. We certainly find that on cupboard cleaning day, every shelf is more or less crisscrossed with food eaten once or twice and then left.

This summer is a good time to take stock of our pantry and use up those unneeded purchases.

To cut down our budget costs and save room in our pantries we should ask ourselves when we are buying the following questions:

"Do we need it?"
"Is it useful?"
"When will I use it?"

Do You Know?
That there are more food fats than any other waste in the home? To avoid these waste for government bulletins—they are very valuable.

Pasty dough made the day before is easier to handle and has better texture.

Camrose May Have Oil

Possibilities of an oil strike in the Camrose district are said to be bright.

At least that's what folk believe thereabouts.

Reason for this belief is the fact that geological surveys presently being made in the district show promise and an oil strike was recently reported at nearby Armona.

The first weekly, the Camrose Canadian, reported the oil strike by Imperial at Armona. Company officials later qualified the strike as uncompleted but promising.

Rex McNeill of the United Geological Co. of Pasadena, Calif., and a dozen or so employees are presently working in the district and the firm has opened up an office in the Smith Clinic building.

The Anglo-Illione well on the Duggan farm is said to be down around the 2000-foot mark and making a fast hole.

Calmont Oil Co. are said to be negotiating purchase of oil rights on three pieces of land in the district.

The oil question is big talk in the district at the present time and while no real reason has thus far been uncovered to hope that oil discovery is a certainty, citizens are of the opinion that prospects are bright from the activities of the oil men surveying in the area.

Soap Box Held Mail In Early Days

Domest Schump, who came from Little Current on the Manitowish Island, in Ontario, in February of 1904, was the first merchant in Camrose.

He opened a combined store and dwelling two months later.

Post office facilities not being organized then, the mail was brought in from Wetaskiwin by Joe Cowan, who drove the mail and passenger coach.

The mail was deposited in Sampson's store in a "soap box" and there being no postmaster, each settler picked up his own mail, reading of the postcards and greetings of others.

When the townsite was selected in May, Sampson moved his store and building to a new lot on Main street and a regular post office was opened with Harry Foucar in charge.

Work Commences On Hanna Rink

HANNA, July 31 — Work was started last Monday on the new curling rink site. The land has been leveled and it is expected that the long talked about rink will soon become a reality.

MAIN STREET IN CAMROSE boasts of one of the most thriving business centres of any town of its size in the province. Chiefly a mixed farming settlement, Camrose, impresses visitors with its wide boulevarded streets, well kept lawns, attractive homes and modern business establishments.

Camrose Citizens Boast Strong Community Spirit

Civic pride is a noticeable feature of Camrose community life.

A visitor is immediately impressed with its wide, boulevarded streets, its well kept lawns and shrubbery, its substantial, attractive homes and its modern business establishments.

Four solid blocks of business houses are located on Main street, chief thoroughfare of the town.

This thriving business centre, which boasts of three departmental stores, modern hotel, post office and several modernized building establishments is definitely suited to serve the town and district and Camrose may well be proud of it.

PRIDE IN GARDENS

Many of the citizens take pride in their gardens and the residential section of the town is one of sheer beauty.

A great amount of credit for the beautification of the area is due to the activities of the Camrose Horticultural Society, which, as early as 1916, began a quiet but persistent campaign for a town beautified with many flowers, lawns, gardens, shrubbery and shady trees.

A number of boulevarded avenues, which are always well attended are found in Camrose, creating an impression with visitors and the townfolk may well be proud of them.

Camrose is situated in one of the most thickly populated and fertile areas in the province. The town's population is said to be slightly over 4,700 but the thriving settlement serves several thousand district residents.

MIXED FARMING

All the usual products of the mixed farming district are produced in the area and crop failures are unknown.

A noted educational centre, Camrose boasts of several modern public and high schools with upwards to 1,000 pupils attending the town's institutes of learning yearly.

The Camrose Lutheran College, a long-established seat of learning, gives a wide range of courses in educational and commercial subjects.

The Camrose Lutheran Bible Institute and the Alberta Bible Institute are devoted to religious instruction.

Camrose is the headquarters for Camrose School Division No. 20, whose jurisdiction takes in hamlet and country schools but not those of the towns.

The division comprises 70 rural schools in which there are 80 teachers and close to 1,900 pupils. The

Old-Timers To Hold Big Reunion

Camrose Old-Timers' Association will hold their annual reunion in connection with the fair.

The old-timers' building scene of the affair, has been spruced up for the occasion and all the pioneers will wear membership ribbons throughout the three-day event.

This is the "big get-together" for the early settlers who talk over old times, recall events of the day-goneby and gossip generally about folks they knew when.

Kentish Fire is the name given to a peculiar form of applause at public dinners or political meetings produced by clapping the hands in unison in a certain rhythm.

NIGHT RAIDERS

SOME mysterious creature had been making night raids on the Teenie Weenie garbage thimble. None of the little people had heard the raider at work, but the top of the garbage thimble had been tampered with, and one night it had been knocked off. Of course Ginky was suspected of being the marauder, but not a mouse track could be found.

"It couldn't be ants," argued the General, "because ants are not strong enough to get the top off the thimble."

"Could it be a fishing worm?" asked the Dunce. "They crawl about during the night when all honest folks are asleep."

"No!" exclaimed the Doctor in disgust. "Earth worms don't eat garbage."

The Duke decided he would sit up and watch for the raiders, but he could never stay awake. So the garbage burglar continued to pay his visits in safety until the Lady of Fashion gave the alarm one morning. The little lady heard a slight noise just at daybreak. Getting out of her tiny bed, she slipped on a dressing gown and knocked on the Ge-

"Something is making a noise on the back porch," she whispered.

The General quickly awakened the Policeman and several other Teenie Weenie men and suggested that they slip out the front door and sneak up on the raider from both sides of the kitchen porch.

"SAY!" protested the frightened Duncs. "I'm not gonna risk my neck for a thimble of garbage."

"That's right, Dunc," put in the Policeman, as he caught up the pin the Teenie Weenies used for a fireplace poker. "We wouldn't want anything to happen to your precious neck."

The Policeman told several of the men to go quietly into the kitchen and wait there until he slipped out the front door and around to the back porch. "When I yell, you rush out of the kitchen door and we'll give this burglar a good drubbing."

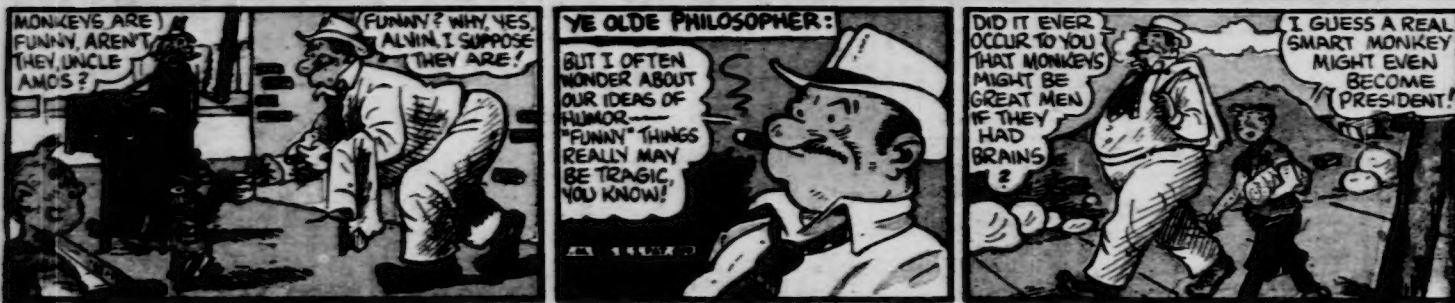

The Policeman went out, and presently they heard him yell. The men dashed out the kitchen door just in time to see three cockroaches scuttle off. The Policeman gave one a good crack with the polar and the Sailor got in a couple of licks with the Cook's potato masher before the bugs escaped.

Considerable garbage was strewn over the porch and steps, but the Duncs and the Turt soon cleaned it up with the aid of a hamster shell bucket of water and the Tonic Weenie Broom. Then the Cook made a pot of sassafras tea and brought out a shell of Tonic Weenie doughnuts to celebrate the victory.
